

SB 367 is Family-Centered and Locally Based.

Senate Bill 367 is responsible, family-centered, and locally focused reform.

A Juvenile Justice Oversight Committee will ensure that the reforms are done according to law and will monitor its success.

Innovative programs will be utilized, including those that help juveniles address substance use or provide family counseling, to reduce the chance of re-offending.

Most importantly, these programs will exist in a child's own home or community, which is key to the success of juvenile justice reform in Kansas.
